Jamie J. Brown, 35, of Beaumont, died Thursday, January 25, 2018. She was born on October 6, 1982, in Nederland, to Kristi Ann Harvey and Kim Wayne Brown, and had been a longtime resident of the area. Jamie taught 8th grade English at Vincent Middle School.

Jamie had an affinity for all things beautiful and bright. Her sense of humor, her laughter, creativity, her love of people, language, cats and cosmetics, were assuredly remarkable in her life. Jamie loved well and loved deeply.

She is survived by her mother, Kristi Harvey, of Beaumont; father, Kim Brown and his wife, Amie; sisters, Meredith McMurray and her husband Tom, of Beaumont and Sarah Brown and her boyfriend, John Bartlett, of Fredericksburg, Virginia; brothers, Caleb Harvey and Nathan Harvey, both of Beaumont; and her true loves, her nieces, Claire McMurray and Lily Bartlett. Jamie had a special relationship with her aunts, Sue Groff and Karin Leger; her lifelong best friends and cousins, Melisa Groff and Amy Groff; along with the beautiful loving children of this family; and her feline child, Cecil.

She is remembered by numerous other aunts, uncles, cousins, friends, colleagues, and students.
