Annie Parigi Coco, 93, of Sour Lake, died Saturday, February 16, 2019. Annie was the eighth of ten children born to Joseph and Concetta Parigi. She was a graduate of Beaumont High School where she met her future husband, Charlie Coco, in French class. While he operated a series of service stations in Beaumont, she was busy rearing their four children. Annie was first and foremost a woman of deep faith, having been a devout parishioner first at St. Joseph's, then St. Pius X and lastly at Our Lady of Victory in Sour Lake.

While there, Miss Annie, as she came to be known to her many friends contributed to the restoration of the beautiful Stations of the Cross in the church. She also passed on her family's traditional St. Joseph's Day altar celebrations in honor of her father. Her altars were beautiful, enjoyed by so many and evidence of her lifetime commitment to her faith.

Annie adored her grandchildren and delighted in the joy that great grandchildren brought to her life. She loved to garden and to cook. It was through cooking and sharing her "all things delicious" that she expressed her love, caring and concern for so many.

She loved the Dallas Cowboys, fresh yard eggs, anything that bloomed and a really clean house. She didn't know a stranger. She dearly loved her sisters and brothers and adored her many nieces and nephews, their Aunt Annie. She will always remain a permanent tenant in our hearts.

Annie is survived by her four children: Margaret Mignery (David) of Austin, TX; Concetta Beck (Link) of El Paso, TX; Charlie Coco (Johnette) of Sour Lake, TX; and Anne Coco (Paul Natzke) of Los Angeles, CA; eight grandchildren; and ten great-grandchildren.

The family would most sincerely like to acknowledge and thank the loving care given to Annie by Alice Cooper and Barbara Roquemore. We are eternally grateful for their kind and loving care.
