Jason Daniel King, 40, of Orange, went to be with the Lord Thursday, September 7, 2017. He was born on August 9, 1977, in Groves, to Iva Lynn Keyes and Joseph Daniel King.

Jason was an incredible father. He spent his life dedicated to making memories with his girls whenever he had the chance. He and his girls spent time playing soccer, practicing piano, eating cookies & milk, and going places like WWE and monster truck rallies.

Often, you would find Jason at the mall spoiling them rotten.

Jason was extremely active in his church. He was always serving and helping people as an usher or in a small group. He was dedicated to his business and worked hard to grow them and his community.

Survivors include his daughters, Madelyn Michelle Pipkins-King and Mykah Danielle King; mother, Iva Houpp and her husband, Kent; father, Joseph Daniel King and his wife, Connie; sisters, Crystal Lynn Richardson and her husband, Robert and Amy Yoder and her husband, Sean; nieces, Tyler, Trinity, and Kyndal; nephews, Jackson and Slate; and many other family members and friends.

He was preceded in death by his sister, Misty Tamone; and nephew, Dakota Falcon.
