In 1965, Ron was promoted to the varsity baseball head coach position where he enjoyed 5 years of winning seasons. This period of Ron's life was some of his happiest and most successful years, and right up until the last weeks of his life he stayed in touch with his players from these teams. Later that year he began his tenure as the Superintendent and served in that position until his retirement from public school in 1992. Following his retirement Ron served as the Superintendent for Beaumont Christian Schools for several years before settling into his full retirement.
