Daniel Boone Schull was born on October 29, 1939, to Daniel Boone and Myrteel Gore Schull and he spent his entire life on the banks of Pine Island Bayou in Lumberton, until he left this life in peace and grace on February 11, 2019.

Danny married Karrol Thompson in 1962, and the two embarked on a fifty-two-year journey together until her passing in 2014. Danny was a modest and humble man who built a life for his family through hard work and determination. He made his career as an iron worker with Local 125. The greatest accomplishments of Danny's life were his two daughters, Danice and Millette. Even though he would give Karrol the credit for the women they became, it was the values he instilled in them, the example he set and the love he showered on them that helped to make them strong successful women.

Danny was not a particularly religious man, but he was filled with faith. Faith in family, in friends, in the goodness of strangers and in God. In the open Gulf fishing or in the calm of the Big Thicket hunting, Danny took every advantage of God's grace and did it all with Karrol by his side. As time went on and Danny and Karrol were blessed with grandchildren and later, great-grandchildren, Danny had more chances to share his hobbies, and his stories and most of all, his love. Daniel Boone Schull lived a rich and full life. He knew the love of a great woman, had two beautiful daughters, life-long friends and a growing family, including five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren, who adore him and who will continue his legacy and share his stories and his love for generations to come.

Danny leaves behind his daughters, Danice James and her husband, Joey and Millette Wheeler and her husband, Jesse; grandchildren, Dallon James and his wife, Laney; Jacob Wheeler; Mauri James; Cole Wheeler; and Marada James; and his great-grandchildren, Emma Jo, Riter Boone; Henley Karrol; and Lorelei James.

Daniel is preceded in death by his wife, Karrol Schull; parents; sister, Shirley Ann Overstreet; and his brother, John Henry Schull.
