Daniel Joseph Ayres, 21, of Beaumont, passed away Sunday, September 18, 2022. He was born November 10, 2000, in Beaumont, to Allison Moreau Ayres and Scott Jason Ayres.

Daniel was an Eagle Scout in his fourth year studying Mechanical Engineering at Lamar University. He was most passionate about God, hunting, his country, and having fun with his friends. He knew how to live life to its fullest and extracted every ounce of fun out of a moment. When he smiled, which was often, the joy he carried inside was evident.

His teenage years were filled with experiencing the outdoors, from catching perch out of a drainage ditch with friends to deer hunting with his grandfather to duck hunting with his best friend and his dad. His scouting journey included experiences of sailing the Florida Keys, backpacking the mountains of northern New Mexico, and canoeing the rivers and lakes of southern Canada.

Daniel was serious about work. He started mowing yards at an early age, added odd jobs here and there, and even tried his hand at building and maintaining a website he hoped would be profitable. He had an admirable work ethic, and he would drop everything to help someone. From cleaning out houses after Hurricane Harvey to cutting bushes down for the neighbors to helping free a friend's stuck vehicle from the mud, he would assist however he could.

Daniel loved music. His playlists were heavily influenced by country music and Christian worship artists, but he recently “discovered” Elvis. He began studying piano at an early age and later became proficient with the guitar.

Daniel accepted Jesus as his Savior and Lord at an early age. He was part of Cathedral, now One City Church, for most of his life. As he grew there, he was part of the youth worship team, the production team, and the building maintenance department. In addition to the Bible, Daniel’s reading list included works by C.S. Lewis, Joyce Meyer, David Barton, and Phil Robertson, to name a few. He was never afraid to share his deep faith. His impact will be felt for years and he will be terribly missed by all that knew him.

He is survived by his parents, Scott and Allison Ayres, of Beaumont; sister, Lauren Bergeron and her husband, Jeremiah, of Beaumont; grandparents, Marvin and Marilyn Ayres of Beaumont; K.P. and JoAnna Moreau of Lumberton; a host of other relatives, and friends without number.
