Jeannie Ross Clingaman, 73, of Silsbee, died on Wednesday, August 28, 2024. She was born on September 20, 1950, in Newton, to Leva Smith Ross and H.C. “Bo” Ross.

Survivors include her sons, Jon Ken Clingaman and his wife, Gayle, of Lufkin; and Jeffrey Clingaman, Sr. and his fiancée, Knicole Childs, of Silsbee; grandchildren, Piper Clingaman, Miller Clingaman, and Jeffrey Clingaman, Jr.; siblings, Delbert Earl Ross and his wife, Linda, of Woodville; and DeRisa Ross Pullen and her husband, Doug, of Pinewood; nieces and nephews, Darron Ross of Round Rock; Dorie Stafford and her husband, Lonnie, of Lumberton; Michael Ross Jones and his wife, Rosanna, of Holliston, Massachusetts; Matthew Rhame and his wife, Rachel, of Sheridan, Montana; and Megan Keys of Williamstown, Vermont; and numerous great nieces and nephews.

Jeannie is preceded in death by her parents.

Jeannie was a 1969 Silsbee High School graduate and went on to attend East Texas Baptist College and Lamar University, where she received her bachelor’s degree. Jeannie was a career educator, working for thirty-four years as a primary education teacher in Deweyville, Spurger, and Silsbee Independent School Districts. As an educator, she held high standards, which at times did not leave much room for flexibility. In return, students were motivated to give their best. Her reputation was well respected as a firm, but fair teacher.

After retirement, Jeannie would often bake sweet treats and share them with local businesses. Many times, the businesses were operated by former students. Jeannie enjoyed being part of her grandchildren’s’ life and making lasting memories. She always had a kind word and big smile to share. The most important character trait of Jeannie was her devotion and commitment to Christ.
